FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

NEW ACCESS POINT TO OPEN IN NORTH MIAMI

A vital source for job seekers

(MIAMI, January 12, 2012) – The South Florida Workforce Investment Board (SFWIB) in partnership with South Florida Urban Ministries will open a new Access Point to assist area residents with finding employment. The grand opening of the Access Point will take place on Wednesday, January 25, 2012, from 11:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. at 11500 NW 12 Avenue Miami, FL 33168.

Access Points, staffed by trained volunteers, are often housed in local churches or community-based organizations, where jobs seekers can find assistance in searching for a job in their own neighborhood. The staff assesses the job seekers needs and assists with online job searching and resume writing.

With 11 Access Points currently in operation, these locations are a vital resource for job seekers. “By providing direct access to employment services in the neighborhoods, we are helping to revive the economic health of the communities,” said Rick Beasley, executive director for South Florida Workforce Investment Board.

The grand opening is free to the general public. Miami-Dade County Commissioner Jean Monestime of District 2 will offer remarks and invited are local clergy, stakeholders, members of the community, board members from SFWIB and South Florida Urban Ministries.

About South Florida Workforce Investment Board
